

The future

Our future on the Logos 2

We will be flying to Amsterdam on the 14th August to meet the ship as it is there in dry-dock at the moment.

As soon as we rejoin the ship, Kathryn will no longer be working in the book fair department but with the welcome team, on reception. This is an exciting change. Please pray that she will be a friendly face for visitors, showing God's love to everyone she deals with.

Please pray for us

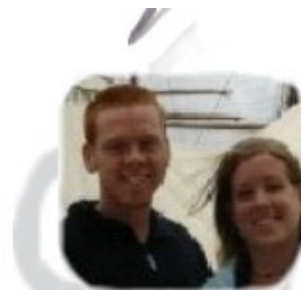

Give thanks for God's faithfulness to us Give thanks that things are progressing with our house Give thanks for our good time in the UK Please pray for those contacted during our time with Turning Point Please pray that our remaining time in the UK will be fruitful Please pray for the safety of all working on the Logos 2

Change is in the air

It's amazing to think we have been with OM almost a year now. These last two months onboard the Logos 2 have been months of constant change. We had the celebration weekend in Liverpool and then dry dock and land teams, all of which we will explain in this update.

It is, however, calming to know that although our circumstances around us are changing, the God whom we serve never changes.

"I am the Alpha and the Omega," says the Lord God, "who is and who was and who is to come, the Almighty."

Rev 1:8

On our way

On our way to England!

During sailing we often work in other departments or on special projects. The sailing to Liverpool was no different. Kathryn was heavily involved in renovating the book fair and Steve worked on deck, chipping away at paint and getting very dirty!

Birkenhead

The celebration weekend was a great time for all those who came. It was a time to reflect on what God has done and His faithfulness to us. Both of us were heavily involved in preparing for the weekend; Steve with taxiing everyone around and Kathryn with creating a display, showing the history of the Logos 2.

cork

Cork and dry—dock

We had a good time travelling around seeing family and supporters after the celebration weekend. It was great to catch up with you all. Thank you for your support and continued prayers.

We flew back to ship for the last week of Cork.

The ship's time in Cork was really blessed by God. There was a fun-day that saw many families coming to the ship who wouldn't normally and an evening conference for teenagers that saw 30+ young people making a commitment to Jesus, including one whole family.

And then it was time to rip the ship up! The Logos 2 has to go into a two month dry-dock to do essential steel replacement. A lot of the accommodation is being ripped up because of this.

We have been sent on a team to the UK

Turning Point and Presentation team

We spent two weeks in London with OM Turning Point working with minority faiths. The next 6 weeks are being spent travelling around the UK, presenting the work of OM to churches and youth groups.
